

HEMISPHERIC PLAN TO FIGHT TRANSNATIONAL ORGANIZED CRIME

The Hemispheric Plan to Fight Transnational Organized Crime is based on two pillars, one political and one operational, that will make use of existing international, regional, and sub-regional arrangements.

SIXTH SUMMIT MANDATE:

To improve the effectiveness and efficiency of comprehensive public policies on citizen security through actions such as the generation and use of relevant and timely information and the strengthening of the capacity and coordination of institutions that participate in the management of citizen security. (Citizen Security and Transnational Organized Crime)

ACTIONS:

- Create an Inter-American Commission Transnational Organized Crime (CIDOT) within the Organization of American States (OAS) as a technical body that promotes political efforts against transnational organized crime.
- Use the Hemispheric Network for information exchange for mutual assistance in criminal matters and extradition, and strengthen ties with the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC) and other relevant United Nations bodies and activities.
- Create an independent Coordinating Center against transnational organized crime to encourage and facilitate comprehensive and systematic exchange of strategic, tactical and operational information in the areas of intelligence, investigation and prosecution. The Coordinating center will also develop strategic products that facilitate the process of decision-making, such as criminal threat assessments and geo-referenced maps.
