Definition of the Summits of the Americas

It is a high-level Forum where Heads of State and Government of the 34 democratic countries in the Hemisphere deliberate and agree on the main challenges confronting the region.

More than just a single event, the Summit of the Americas is a process involving the interplay of a variety of actors, including governments, international organizations and civil society, necessary to discern and negotiate those themes and challenges deemed as priorities for the region.

The objectives of this multilateral process are to seek common solutions to those identified priorities and to devise strategies through the drafting of a Summit Declaration of Commitment (combination of the past Declaration and Plan of Action).
Since 1994, four Summits and two Special Summits have been held in six different countries in the region.

The Summits have allowed the citizens of the Americas to have better and more articulated policies regarding combating poverty, judicial cooperation, and economic integration, to name a few.

How does the Summit Process function?

Main actors
Main Actors

These key actors serve as the principal channels through which the issues and urgent challenges of the inter-American agenda are identified, discussed, and shaped into what will become the Declarations of the Summits of the Americas.

- Summit Implementation Review Group (SIRG)
- Host Government (Summit National Secretariat)
- Summits of the Americas Secretariat (OAS)
- Joint Summit Working Group (JSWG)
- Civil Society
- Ministers and High Level Authorities of the Americas (Ministerial Meetings)
Summit Implementation Review Group (SIRG)

- Core management body of the Summit Process, tasked with negotiating priorities for future Summits and reviewing the implementation of the Summit mandates.

- National Coordinators represent each of the 34 democratically elected governments of the hemisphere.

- Responsible for reporting annually on the progress achieved in the fulfillment of the Plan of Action

- Meets at least 3 times a year, with one of their meetings held at the Ministerial level at the OAS General Assembly.
Summits of the Americas Secretariat (OAS)

- Serves as technical secretariat and institutional memory of the Summit of the Americas Process
- Supports the Summit Implementation Review Group (SIRG) – presents reports on JSWG activities
- Chairs the Joint Summit Working Group (JSWG) and coordinates its activities to implement Summit mandates
- Coordinates with the organs, agencies, and entities of the OAS the implementation of Summit mandates
- Promotes and disseminates Summit mandates to Member States, civil society, the private sector, the academia, and the media
- Supports the Committee on Inter-American Summits Management and Civil Society Participation in OAS Activities (CISC)
- Coordinates with OAS bodies the achievements of ministerial and high-level meetings to the Summit Process and distributes this information to the follow-up mechanisms of the Process
- Maintains and operates the Summits of the Americas Information Network.
Joint Summit Working Group (JSWG)

Comprised of twelve member institutions, whose expertise span the range of Summit and Inter-American issues, the JSWG is a clear indication of how the Summits Process has fostered new levels of cooperation and communication in the region.

The Group’s main purpose is to coordinate and report on follow-up activities of their institutions for the implementation of Summits mandates. In addition, the research and expertise of these organizations constitute an invaluable source of information that is used to determine the most important issues facing the citizens of the Hemisphere.
